James Nyoraku Schlefer is a Grand Master of the shakuhachi and one of only a handful of non-Japanese artists to have achieved this rank. He received the Dai-Shi-Han (Grand Master) certificate in 2001, and his second Shi-Han certificate in 2008, from the Mujuan Dojo in Kyoto. He has performed at Carnegie Hall, Lincoln Center, the Kennedy Center, Tanglewood and BAM, as well as multiple venues across the country and in Japan, Indonesia, Brazil and Europe. Mr. Schlefer first encountered the shakuhachi in 1979, while working towards a career as a flute player and pursuing an advanced degree in musicology at CUNY (Queens College.) Today, he is considered by his colleagues to be one of most influential Western practitioners of this distinctive art form. In February 2014, Concertonet.com gave him the accolade of “America’s finest Shakuhachi player”.

As a composer, Mr. Schlefer has written multiple chamber and orchestral works combining Japanese and Western instruments as well as numerous pieces solely for traditional Japanese instruments. Mr. Schlefer is the Artistic Director of Kyo-Shin-An Arts and the curator for the Japanese music series at the Tenri Cultural Institute in NYC. He teaches shakuhachi at Columbia University, a broad spectrum of Western and World music courses at New York City Technical College (CUNY), and performs and lectures at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Mr. Schlefer’s composition style draws upon his deep connections to Western classical and rock music, as well as traditional and modern styles of Japanese music. He writes for koto, shamisen, and shakuhachi, with and without Western instruments, combining these instruments with piano trio, string quartet and orchestra. Mr. Schlefer has been commissioned by Orchestra of the Swan, Kyo-Shin-An Arts, the Sartori Ensemble, SONOS Chamber Orchestra and Dancing in the Streets, and Pearson Widrig Dance Theater, with the support of the Mary Flagler Cary Charitable Trust (American Music Center – NewMusic USA) Live Music for Dance Program.

Koto/shamisen performer and singer, Yoko Reikano Kimura has concertized around the world based in the US and Japan. For her koto playing, she was touted as “beautiful” and “genuinely talented” by Hogaku no Tomo. The New York Times described her shamisen playing and singing as “superb”. She has graduated from the Tokyo University of the Arts and Music, where she was awarded the top prize for her graduation recital. She continued her studies at the NHK School for Young Professionals and the Institute of Traditional Japanese Music. Also the Agency of Culture Affairs elected her as the internship trainee. Her main teachers include Kono Kameyama, Akiko Nishigata and a Living National Treasure, Senko Yamabiko. Yoko has won numerous awards including the First prize at the prestigious 10th Kenjun Memorial National koto Competition and at the Great Wall International Music Competition. She performed at the Kabuki-za for the play, “Sukeroku” starring Danjuro Ichikawa XII. She is continuing her performances in Japan and holds a teaching position at the Institute of Traditional Japanese Music, an affiliate of Senzoku Gakuen College of Music. Since 2008 she has concertized around the world, performing in such places as Poland, Switzerland, France, Lithuania, Korea, China, Israel, Qatar, Italy, Turkey and the South America.
